

Practice Makes Perfect

CANADIAN BALLET dancers put lots of practice into their work. They performed on the Wartburg stage last Thursday evening for the second Artist Series. (See Review, p. 4).

Teams Chosen For Intramural Debate

Teams have been chosen and students are preparing their material for this year's intramural debates scheduled for Nov. 15 and 16, according to John Ness, speech director.

"Resolved, That Wartburg College withdraw from inter-collegiate athletics" will be the first question to be debated this year.

THIS TOPIC was chosen because it was thought it would attract campus interest. This is only a debate topic and not a proposed plan for Wartburg, Ness explained.

Debating for the affirmative from Vollmer House are juniors Paul Wilken, Orville McElfresh and Phil Truckenbrod and senior Fred Dierks. From Gamma House are Charles Knorr, senior, and Dennis Wendt, junior.

AFFIRMATIVE debaters for Hebron Hall are freshmen Ruth Anne Murray and Lois Reyelts. Hebron's negative members are Joan Schnor and Judy Kline, sophomores.

Other negative debating teams are Alpha House, whose representatives are seniors Jerry Staehling, Carl Jech and Mike Sherer.

Grossmann Hall debaters are Brent Harstad and Allan Schultz, freshmen. Seniors Oscar Scofield and Harold Schlachtenhaufen are the off-campus members.

Four or five debates will be held this year, depending upon student interest, according to Ness.

Senior Jan Horne Chooses New Land

By Evan Bartelt

"Not any country is perfect, but here the problems are more real. The United States is a world power, and here you have an actual chance to take part and do something."

This was the comment of Wartburg senior Jan Horne. Jan, who is from Kristiansand, Norway, is a pre-theological student majoring in sociology.

Last summer Jan applied for citizenship and is to be naturalized sometime during November.

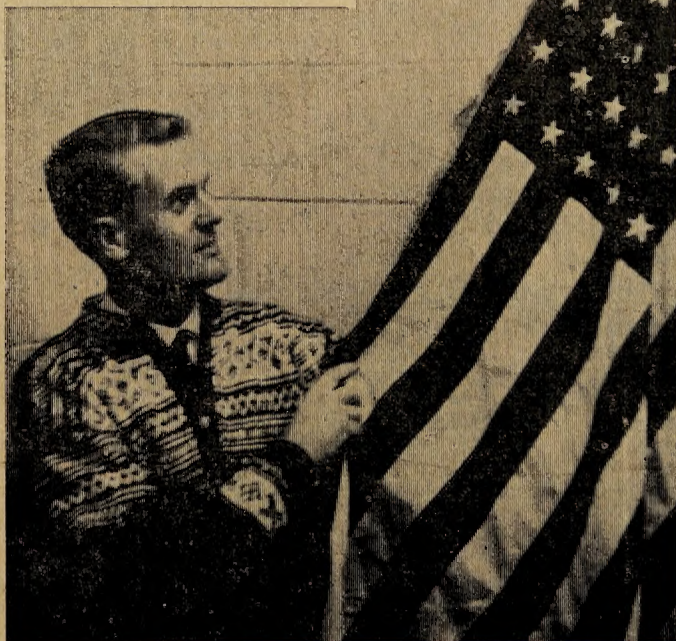

Horne went to Cedar Rapids on Sept. 19 for his first hearing for naturalization and took the test on familiarity with American history.

For this he had to study a handbook published by the Daughters of the American Revolution for the benefit of persons applying for citizenship.

Jan is to be sworn in approximately ten days after the fall elections. The reason for the delay is a law stating that no alien may be sworn in 60 days before or 10 days after a general election.

Jan came to the states in May 1956 after being discharged from the Norwegian Air Force, where he inspected and tested jet and reciprocal engines. His initial purpose in coming to America was to find a job at an airport in some field related to aviation.

NORWEGIAN NATIVE JAN Horne admires the flag of his new country as he prepares to become a citizen of the United States this month.

He was sponsored by a family in Oak Park, Ill., where he first stayed after coming to the Midwest. After visiting several airports around Chicago and finding he didn't have the correct papers for the job he wanted, Jan decided to join the American Air Force, where he could obtain such papers.

In the Air Force he received the same ratings he had previously held, but did not receive any raise in grade beyond those who had just

Charter Granted At Church Conf.

Wartburg College was granted its own charter at the first regular, biennial convention of The American Lutheran Church, held Oct. 18-24 in Milwaukee, Wis.

Series Tickets Ready

Artist Series tickets may be reserved by students and faculty next Thursday and Friday between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. for the performance of mezzo-soprano Miss Grace Bumbry.

Tickets will be available at the ticket booth in the foyer of the Chapel-auditorium.

This Artist Series number is scheduled for Sunday, Nov. 18.

Orchestra Plays Tomorrow Night

William Preucil will be guest soloist with the Waverly Community Orchestra in its first concert of the season tomorrow evening at 7:30 in the Chapel-auditorium.

Preucil is the former concert master of the Detroit Symphony. He is now an instructor in string instruments at the State University of Iowa, Iowa City.

The artist will appear with the orchestra in several numbers which were written to feature a viola solo.

A variety of music will be played by the orchestra under the direction of Robert E. Lee, Wartburg instructor of instrumental music.

There are generally 40 to 50 members of the orchestra made up interested personnel from Waverly and the surrounding area and Wartburg students selected by auditions with Director Lee picking the best of Wartburg musicians.

The group will interpret numbers ranging from the serious "Peer Gynt Suite" to light program material from the Broadway musical "Camelot."

Students will be admitted with their activity tickets, according to Lee.

This charter enables the college to apply for federal aid to be used for capital improvements. The present planned addition for the Student Union will be directly affected, according to Dean of Faculty J. O. Chellevoid.

THOSE ATTENDING the church convention from Wartburg were Pres. C. H. Becker; Dean Chellevoid; Dr. Karl Schmidt, head of the Department of Religion; and Dr. James Fritschel, Music Department.

Board of Regents members whose terms expire this year were re-elected at the convention. These include Dr. Walter G. Voecks, chairman, Waverly; the Rev. Dean Kilgust, Green Bay, Wis.; Mrs. Henry Graven, Greene; the Rev. A. C. Schumacher, Madison, Wis.; and Fred Miller, Fontanelle.

OTHER ACTION taken at the convention included the acceptance of the Lutheran Free Church as a part of The American Lutheran Church, voting to retain membership in the World Council of Churches and the approval for various institutions of the church to accept federal loans and grants.

Increase in the minimum pension for members of The ALC pension plan and the approval of a 22-million dollar budget with additional funds for physical expansion of colleges and other church institutions were included in other action taken.

Parents Day Coming Sat.

Next Saturday will be Parents Day at Wartburg.

Parents are invited to come Friday or Saturday morning, according to Pres. C. H. Becker. Beginning Saturday at 9 a.m., the parents will have a full schedule of things to see and do.

From 9-10 a.m. there will be a coffee hour in Knights Gymnasium, and a special program from 10-10:45 a.m.

Lester Wachholz of Wausau, Wis., chairman of the parents' organization, will give a welcome address, as will Student Body Pres. Dick Buchsteiner, Dean of Students E. F. Oppermann and President Becker.

A counseling session between parents and faculty is scheduled for 10:45-11 a.m. At this time parents may ask questions concerning courses offered at Wartburg, extracurricular activities and other facets of college life.

Parents will eat their noon meal in the cafeteria, and in the afternoon they have been invited to attend the Wartburg-Buena Vista football game. Since this is the Dad's Day game, each player's dad will be recognized.

A coffee hour will be held in Centennial Lounge from 3:30-5 p.m., and a banquet will follow at 5:30 at St. Paul's Lutheran Parish Hall.

During the banquet Wartburg students will present a program, and the Mother of the Year will be recognized.

All parents have also been invited to attend Sunday morning services at St. Paul's.

"A large number of parents have already made reservations for the various functions of the weekend," said President Becker, "and we are looking forward to an unusually fine Parents Day observance."

Rights Require Responsibility

What is freedom of the press, anyway? Every once in a while this question pops into a conversation over a cup of coffee or when a controversial article appears in a newspaper.

During the Associated Collegiate Press Convention in Detroit last week this topic was prominent in workshop discussions as well as over-the-coffee discussions.

The issue in direct connection was that of the college newspaper at the University of Colorado, Boulder. The Colorado Daily editor was fired by the president of the college two weeks ago, following several weeks of controversy centered around an article and a letter printed by the editor in the newspaper.

The article appearing in the paper toward the end of September implied that Senator Barry Goldwater was a "murderer, a mountebank, no better than a common criminal." In a letter written to explain the attack, ex-President Dwight D. Eisenhower was referred to as "an old Futzer."

Though the article and letter were written by a student who was not a member of the newspaper staff, the editor was directly responsible for all material entering the publication.

The president felt that the editor had injured the university with acts of irresponsibility, and so to avoid further damage to the college, the president relieved the editor of his position.

Whether the president was justified in this extreme action is debatable in this case, but the fact remains that freedom of the press was endangered.

It was the general opinion of college editors at the convention that in the Colorado case the editor had acted irresponsibly and was not worthy of his title as editor.

If this case had happened in a public press situation, there could have been direct court action taken against him. In this college situation the president of the college received the repercussion in attacks by Senator Goldwater.

Regardless of the outcome of this particular case, the fact remains that editorial responsibility is a privilege and should be handled with tact and maturity.

On the college level there are very few newspapers with complete editorial freedom. In order to have complete freedom, a newspaper would have to be completely self-supporting. In nearly every college many of the funds are received from the student government or student activities as at Wartburg, for instance.

So long as the newspaper is an official college publication and receives any funds whatsoever from the college there is not complete editorial freedom. The only true freedom would also involve economic freedom.

A problem which exists for many colleges is to make it understood that the views expressed in the college newspaper are the views of students and not necessarily the views of the faculty and administration.

If this were understood, controversial topics would not reflect back to the president of the college or any other officials, but directly to the student editors, for the school paper is designated as a student publication. This attitude would improve the situation considerably.

It is the responsibility of the editor and his editorial board to decide their editorial policy and display editorial maturity in matters regarding freedom of the press.

Politics Take Spotlight Next Tuesday

Democrats Speak

Republicans Speak

By Roy Goodrich

What sort of thoughts run through your mind when you think of the Democratic Party? Do you think of F.D.R. and New Deal days or J.F.K. and New Frontier days?

The Democratic Party is, of course, composed of millions of individual members, and each has a slightly different view of what his party stands for. Maybe we could best represent the Democratic viewpoint by examining past and present Democratic administrations.

THE MODERN Democratic Party has deep roots in the ideals and acts of Woodrow Wilson. His great principles of human integrity, which were incorporated into the League of Nations, were a milestone to the United Nations as we know it.

Franklin Delano Roosevelt guided the nation through a harsh depression and a world conflict. This leader of New Deal times gave the individual help while allowing him to keep his self-respect.

Harry S. Truman, now considered one of our greatest presidents by historians, gave leadership to our nation in a crucial era.

SOME OF HIS accomplishments were as follows: the decision to drop the A-bomb, to develop the H-bomb, the Berlin air lift, the Marshall Plan, the Truman Doctrine and winning the election of 1948, which no one expected, an accomplishment that would make any man great.

Above all, the Democrats believe in helping the people while upholding the individual's self-respect. Much of this help must come through government agencies because in our modern and complex society the individual can not do this through his own private resources.

By Mike Sherer

Basic to Republicanism, and emphasized by Republicans in Iowa and throughout the nation, is the positive conviction that America must build and keep a strong and free system of government of and by the people.

Anathema to Republicans is the current trend, at the federal level of government, to develop more and more centralized executive control ("let the President and his advisers do it—it's less trouble and more efficient").

Conversely, Republicans are inclined to demand that a greater trust be placed in state and local governments where citizens may exert a maximum of influence upon their representatives and where laws are likely to be passed more responsibly, more efficiently and with a minimum of unnecessary bureaucratic waste and control.

WHILE REPUBLICANS believe in serving the needs of America's citizens within the legitimate bounds of government, their major difference with those of other parties lies in many instances in the ways in which goals are to be achieved.

The Republican is convinced that individuals should be allowed and encouraged to take the initiative whenever possible. Only when individuals or private sources are unable to solve problems and to meet needs requiring solutions, should government step in.

Republicans are likewise inclined to denounce efforts by the government to "plan" and consequently to strictly and artificially control the economic life of the nation. While America is the wealthiest nation in the world today, it is not acceptable to the Republican to engage in fiscal irresponsibility and recklessness.

Political Primer Offered For Elementary Kiddies

By Mike Sherer

Not very many people would oppose teaching our elementary school tots the mechanics of government. The second grade set should be especially well-versed, one should hope, in the art of "electioneering" and vote-getting.

This is a good time of year for teaching the fundamentals of this sort of thing. There doesn't seem to be much danger in presenting the facts to our youngsters frankly and without coloration. (After all, whoever heard of losing the grade school vote?)

Brother Martin's Political Primer

See the funny man. See him laugh and smile. See him wave at the people. He is really funny. Ho, Ho, Ho.

Why is he waving at all the people? He is not a movie star. He is not a circus clown. He is not the President. He is the President's brother. He is a candidate. He is running for office.

See the other candidate. He is running for office too. Run, run, run. He is not the President's brother. He is just rich.

See the candidate smile. He is smiling at the mothers and fathers. He is smiling at the boys and girls. He is smiling at everybody. He is not smiling at you. You do not live in his district. Smile, smile, smile.

Sometimes he forgets how to stop smiling. Then he must keep smiling at night. And maybe on Saturday too. Poor Mr. Candidate! Maybe his friends will call him "Happy Jack." Or maybe "Smiles."

See the candidates disagree. They do not promise the same things. Promise, promise, promise. They have run out of things to promise. They will have to think up some new things. That is what campaign managers are for.

See the people frown. See them frown at the candidates. They are disappointed. The candidates were better looking on television.

Hear the candidate speak. He will serve the people. He will serve them a bill of goods. He will serve them notice of increased taxes. Speak, speak, speak. He likes to speak. It gives him experience. He has never had any experience.

Won't you be glad when you are old enough to vote?

Sherer

Thanks Extended For Homecoming

To the Editor:
A resolution was passed at this week's meeting of the President's Cabinet to extend thanks for a very fine Homecoming weekend.

The Cabinet especially wishes to extend appreciation and congratulations to the co-chairmen, Jerry Staehling and George Whinna; the Alumni Director, Robert Gremmels; and to their committees for their work in planning and executing a truly high-caliber program.

We feel that it has been one of our very best Homecomings and appreciate the efforts of all those who contributed to its success.

Wartburg Runners Capture Second

Wartburg cross-country squad put on its best performance of the season yesterday to place second in the conference. Nearly all of Wartburg's men had, by a substantial margin, their best times of the season.

First finisher for the Knights was Lothar Columbus, who captured fifth with a 15:54 time. Next Knight to finish was Bill Riggle in 11th; then Rog Palmer 12th.

Finishing out the top five for the Knights, were George Max and Arlie Ristau in 15th and 16th places, respectively.

The meet was won by Dubuque by a 53-61 score over the Knights. Spartans were led by freshman Larry MacDonald, who set a new course record of 15:08.2 for the three miles while finishing at the head of the field. Luther captured third place with 63 points. The Norse were followed by Simpson with 82, Parsons 101 and Central 130.

Times for the meet were a good deal faster than last year. A man this year had to run about a minute faster total time to capture the position he held last year.

Arlie Ristau, the last of the Knights' top five, would have finished fifth in last year's meet with the time he posted this year.

"They were quite surprised at our strength," commented Coach John Kurtt as his strong cross-country team shut out Central College here last Saturday by a 15 to 48 margin.

Wartburg runners were led by Lothar Columbus, who ran the course in 15:48. Roger Palmer finished second, coming in with the time of 16:49. Ristau, Riggle and Max rounded out the first five, all under 17:10.

Adkins was the first Central man to cross the finish line with the time of 17:24. Russ Leitz and Chris Schmidt, both of Wartburg, finished seventh and eighth, respectively, both with their best times of the year, Russ with 17:41 and Chris with 17:43.

With Wartburg placing seven runners in the first eight places, the margin of the score was one of the largest ever run up by a Wartburg team.

Harriers traveled to Luther on Tuesday of this week, where they lost a heartbreaker by one point, 28-27, to the Norsemen. Gene Takle from Luther won top honors with a time of 16:22, as he broke the old record, 16:48, which he had set earlier this year.

Gridders Face Dutchmen After Beating Statesmen

By Paul Baumgarten

Today the Knights are at Pella to face the Flying Dutchmen of Central in their last road encounter of the year. Central stands second in the conference with a 5-2 record.

Central has been defeated by William Penn and Parsons. The Penn loss came in the first game of the season. Parsons turned the trick against the Dutchmen about a month ago.

Last weekend in the Homecoming game the Knights defeated the favored Statesmen of William Penn by a 25-13 score.

Penn jumped off to an early lead as Henry went over from the 5-yard line. Wartburg then took over with touchdowns by Eldon Ott and Bill Fulcher and one extra point kicked by Bob Nielsen.

Second and last score for the Statesmen was on a two-yard run by Zoffke. Knights then struck for two TD's, Jim Pyle running one over from the 13 and Fulcher scoring on a 36-yard pass from Ott, who had previously received a lateral from Bob Wachholz.

Wartburg ran up a statistical advantage which was nearly equal to the score. Knights outgained Penn on the ground 205 yards to 163 and in the air 145 to 62.

One of the most outstanding parts of a tremendous team effort all around was the punting of freshman Jim Pyle. On two kicks he managed a 51-yard average, one of which was a 71-yard boomer. The other he kicked out of bounds inside the 5-yard line to put the Statesmen deep in their own territory.

In the closing gridiron contest of the season, the Knights next week take on the Beavers of Buena Vista.

Buena Vista currently stands eighth in the conference with a 2-5 record. Beavers have defeated only Iowa Wesleyan and Simpson thus far this season. Today they face Dubuque at home.

JIM PYLE races for the goal line surrounded by a mass of white shirted Statesmen. He barely made it to account for one of his two of the Knights' four touchdowns.

Canadian Ballet Company Merits Superior Rating

By Pat Dieterich

Gracefulness and precision were the key words for Thursday evening's Artist Series.

The program, performed by the Canadian Ballet Company, was indeed a complete change from the usual type of Series numbers.

The program was light and well suited for the varied audience. A few of us, however, were disappointed not to have seen at least one heavier number of the type which we usually associate with ballet.

"One in Five" was a very clever number, the mischievous characters being well portrayed.

The "Pas De Deux" was refreshing. The dancers seemed to look almost like music-box figures. This dancing team and the team performing "Pas De Deux from Le Corsair" were outstanding in grace, form and synchronization, their graceful leaps seeming almost to defy gravity.

"L'Après Midi D'un Faune" was done in complete agreement with the mood of the music. The choreography was indeed superb.

College Receives Nuclear License

Wartburg has been issued a three-year Special Nuclear Material License by the Division of Licensing and Regulation of the United States Atomic Energy Commission, as reported by William Azbell, Department of Physics.

This license will give the Physics Department permission to receive and possess 32 grams of Plutonium encapsulated as one 2-curie Plutonium-Beryllium neutron source.

This source will be used by the Physics Department in a neutron howitzer to produce radioisotopes for the use of the department's new nuclear program.

was colorful and entertaining. After small ensembles and solo work all evening, this piece was a perfect grand finale. The costumes and staging helped make it unforgettable.

"Judgment of Paris" was the only real disappointment. As a character skit it was well performed, but it seemed to be drawn out and inappropriate in a ballet program.

If we as a student body could even vaguely realize the amount of hard work, drill and effort the dancers have had to put forth for at least ten to fifteen years, we might be more able to fully appreciate this fine art which seems so delicate and beautiful to the eye.

Plans Set For Conference

Final plans have been made for the 1962-63 Conference of The American Lutheran Church, set for March 29-31, 1963, according to junior Paul Wilken. He attended the Conference Coordinators meeting at Minneapolis last weekend.

The spring conference will be held at Dana College, Blair, Neb., under the theme "Called to Be Human in a Dehumanizing World."

Plans now call for Dr. John Bachman of Union Theological Seminary, New York, as keynote speaker.

Emphasis will be in the fields of athletics and business with Jackie Robinson, former Brooklyn Dodgers star, and William Stringfellow, a prominent New

Frosh Win Float Prize

Freshman class took first-place honors with their float "We're Expecting Twin" in last weekend's Homecoming festivities.

Second place went to Clinton Hall, third to "W" Club and fourth to the junior class in the float division.

In the decorations contest the prize went to Centennial Hall for on-campus decorations and Alpha House for off-campus decorations.

In return of cards from the balloon contest the farthest one so far has been received from Indiana, according to George Whinna, Homecoming co-chairman.

Convo To Honor Veterans

Convocations this next week will consist of a worship service on Tuesday and a Veterans Day observance on Thursday.

"Breakthrough in Communications" will be the theme of the address by Pastor Herman Diers.

The worship service will feature a touch of drama, which will be based on the play "Strange Interlude" by Eugene O'Neill. Senior Kay Knopf and junior Jim Steinbrecher will play the main roles.

Rear Admiral Ira H. Nunn, Commandant, 9th Naval District, will speak on "The Role and Mission of the Navy Today." As Commandant of the 9th Naval District, he commands all Navy and Marine Corps forces in 13 Midwestern states.

Admiral Nunn has served the Navy with distinction for more than forty-one years. He wears the Navy's highest award, the Navy Cross.

Movie To Depict American Classic

"The Grapes of Wrath," second movie in the Wartburg English Department film series, will be shown this coming Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Chapel-auditorium.

The date of the movie was incorrectly given in last week's Trumpet.

Based on the great American classic by John Steinbeck, the movie stars Henry Fonda.

Tickets for the film may be obtained from members of the English Department.
